POINTS GLORY ON ALL SIDES

CHURCH IS CROWDED

Many Are Turned Away From Baccalaureate Exercises.—Beauty in Common Things, Says Woodhull.

"The discovery of glory in common things" was the theme of the Rev. W. S. Woodhull, pastor of the First Methodist Church, at the baccalaureate services held last night at the First Christian Church for the graduating classes of the Maryville High School and the high school department of the State Teachers College.

The church auditorium was filled to capacity. Many friends of the graduates stood up and others were turned away.

The Rev. Mr. Woodhull took as his text the masterpiecee of Millet, "The Angelus."

"The picture," he said, "in its subject matter is commonplace enough. Just a potato patch and two peasants and a church steeple in the distance. But somehow in its very bareness, in the rudely graceful attitude of the figures in the foreground and in the simple lines of the steeples against the sky, there is the strange allurement of beauty suggested rather than seen. We can feel the cool hush of the inflowing tides of night and can almost hear the mellow tunes of the Angelus bell calling to prayer.

"The half hidden charm of this simple painting suggests that one purpose of education is the discovery of the glory of beauty in the common things of life. The sparrow bathing with flying spray in a tiny rain pool, the gleam of sunshine in a baby's hair the swaying tree that

" . . . in the summer time may wear
A nest of robins in its hair;
A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts its leafy arms to pray.'

all of these do hold in them a vast treasure of beauty for him who will discover it. Even a drop of slime on a city street has in it the silica of the ruby, the carbon which, crystallized, is the diamond and the water that, hanging from the point of a dewy grass blade, reflects the brilliancy of the sun and the splendor of the rainbow," the graduates were told by the minister.

"In this picture of two honest folks contributing their share of labor to the world's needs and praying at the end of the day is easily seen the glory of character," he pointed out, adding:

"And that is the real test of a man. Not his wealth, for a multi-millionaire may have no more than the golden touch of King Midas, the magic power that proved his ruin. Men of great possessions may be notorius but none are accounter, even in the world's reckoning, notable for their riches."

"Nor is power gained and held a sign of real worth. Consider Alexander, the world conqueror; Attila, 'The Scourge of God'; and Napoleon, 'The Man of Destiny.' Each left no more than 'A name at which the world grew pale.

To point a moral or adorn a tale.'

And even

'Imperial Ceasar, dead and turned to clay
May stop a hole and keep the wind away.'

"The only immortality that a mighty man may gain in the minds of succeeding generations springs from his own worth of character. William Gladstone, Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, will live through the centuries not by the eloquent words they said nor by the fame they gained, nor by the fine deeds they did but by what, profoundly, they were: Gladstone, a Gibraltar of honorable statesmanship; Lincoln, a perennial spring of high wisdom an courage and human tenderness; Roosevelt, always a tower of righteousness, made sure their immortal fame.

"The young man of Galilee is mastering the world today by the power of his flowless soul when asked. 'Can you believe that when man once dead can in three days rise again?' and understanding replied, 'yes if that man be Jesus.'

"As we look at the painting again, we discover the glory of God in it. For out of their weariness and poverty and ignorance, Millet's two peasants lift their hands to touch the hem of

MAY FETE TO BE PRESENTED

ANNUAL OUTDOOR SPECTACLE AT COLLEGE WEDNESDAY.

WILL LAST ONE HOUR

No Delays This Year, Director Promises —Many Children to Take Part In Dances.

Final rehearsals will be held today and tomorrow for the annual May Fete at the State Teachers College. It will take place at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon on the campus immediately in front of the College administration building.

Dr. Ethel J. Saxman, director of physical education for women at the College, and faculty members of her department are in charge of the fete.

In the past, it has been the policy to have four May queens, one from each of the classes at the college. This year, however, one queen and four attendants were chosen at an election held early this month. Miss Merea Williams, Maryville, a senior, will be the queen of Wednesday's event, and her attendants will be Misses Etta Trusty, Pauline Manchester, Fern Murray, and June Cozine.

The College orchestra and women's chorus will furnish music for the fete, which will be carried out in full in an hour's time. In former years, the fetes have been so lengthy that often they were not completed before dusk. This year Miss Saxman plans to have as comprehensive an event as in the past, but her plans are arranged so that there will be no delay between numbers of the program.

Children to Take Part.

Children of the College demonstration school and the Franklin and Washington schools will assist students of the women's athletic department in the presentation of the fete.

The program will open with orchestra numbers by the College orchestra, under the direction of Harry O. Hickerneil. The queen and her attendants will then make their entrance. Little Miss Betty Alice Hosmer and Maurice Womack will be the train bearers.

The women's chorus will then sing "Robin Hood" by William Shields and "Morris Dance," a traditional air. Mary Henderson will then give a solo dance and will crown the queen.

Miss Elizabeth Mills, a senior in the College Conservatory of Music, will sing a solo, "May Morning," by Danza. A number of dances will then be given. The first will be a snowflakes dance by children of the Franklin school. Those who will participate in this dance are:

Jessie Roff, Eulah May Foley, Shirley Gray, Mary Margaret Hartness, Mary Catherine McNeal, Hope Wilsey, Elaine Wyman, Wilda Davis, Junior Robey, Cleo Hiley, Eldon Roff, James Ellis, John Elliff, Kenneth Thornton, Junior Baker, Mary Frances Barrock, Edward Bird, Anna Margaret Alkire, Turinter Foley, Edward Geist, June Smith, Jean Myers.

Raindrops, Winds and Sunbeams.

Children of the College demonstration school and the girls of the singing class at the College will give the next two dances, 'Raindrops' and 'Winds.' Then girls of the fifth and sixth grades at the Washington school will give a "Sunbeams" dance. These girls are:

Mary Alice Arnett, Frances Baker, Mary Butcher, Mary Elise Case, Mildred Clardy, Edith Clark, Esther Croy, Doris Marie Daniels, Gertrude Heaton, Helen Gaugh, Mary Ann Hamilton, Veva Heltzel, Dorothy Hooper, Winifred Jantz, Olive Johnson, Helen Edna Lauber, Helen Leet, Norma Ruth Logan, Edna Melton, Dorothy McDonald, Marion Musgrave, Grace Murdock, Lavera Palmer, Edna Rayhill, Laura Phoebe Roseberry, Helene Robey, Bessie Ross, Ellen Seiler, Mary Shannon, Aurene Spencer, Jean St. Clair, Edith Steele, Ethel Steele, Virginia Watt, Julia Mae Woods, and Virginia Workman.

NEW DANGER IN LOUISIANA

ATCHAFALAYA RIVER AS GREAT A MENACE AS MISSISSIPPI.

FEAR FOR RICH LANDS

Water from Breaks at Big Bend Spreads Fifty Miles to South Over Fertile "Sugar Bowl."

New Orleans, May 16.—The mad flood waters of the Atchafalaya river vied with those of the Mississippi today threatening to break through the levees at Woodside and inundate the rich bottom lands between the two rivers, where more than 100,000 farmers and their families live.

Engineers reported the levees at a point ten miles below Old river on the east bank of the Atchafalaya was weakening and in several places slides had occurred. They held hope, however, that it would hold.

A break means that several more parishes would go under water. The farming lands of these parishes are the richest in Louisiana. Scarcely any of the inhabitants have left their homes.

New Orleans, May 16.—A scant mile from where the flood torrent files down into the great valley west of the Atchafalaya river, coast guards today picked up more than 2,000 refugees huddled on the weakest levee.

Naval aviators, flying low over the "Sugar Bowl" lands, said the flood tide was fifty miles below the crevasses along Big Bend. The parishes for below were being evacuated and no flood-trapped persons were reported.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover arrived here today to confer on rehabilitation plans. New Orleans was complacent today following issuance of a flood bulletin by I. M. Cline, of the weather bureau, in which he renewed his prediction of yesterday that the series of breaks west of Old river should cut the expected crest south of there on the Mississippi.

Reed wired every member of Congress and President Coolidge Saturday night, urging that influence be brought to bring into being the special session, as, he said, the situation is growing more and more acute.

Only three of the telegrams received so far were adverse to the special session. Others from Republicans and Democrats alike agreed with Senator Reed that the special session should be called. Senator Reed left yesterday for Portland, Ore., where he will visit a sister for a short time.

Pastor Urges Close Study of Children

Parents, However, Cannot Plan Another's Life, Says Rev. Dewar, In "Tribute To Dad."

"The best thing I could say about a man as a father or as a mere man would be that he had a Mother." the Rev. W. N. Dewar, declared at the First Presbyterian Church, in his sermon yesterday morning, on "A Tribute To Dad."

"It was Winston Churchill who said that 'unless there be in the background a mother, no portrait of a man is complete.' I would go farther than that," the minister declared, "I say that the portrait of a man without a mother in the background is no portrait at all and not worth looking at."

"God is a Father, too, and God gave the children of men a world literally packed with good things, and they forgot him and did evil in his sight. Then he discovered that his contact with them was too impersonal and to correct that terrible defect. He sent His son that He might teach mankind first hand His love for them, and thus bind His children to Him.

"Human fatherhood is but parallel to this. We know how to give good things unto our children, but do we know how to give ourselves?

"Do we know how to give ourselves to the separate study of our children in order that we might come really to know them and deal with them as we ought?

"Many a father is disappointed that his son does not follow in his steps in the matter of his life's work. Perhaps he wanted him to be a farmer. He had great ambitions for his son. He wanted him to carry on the business. The son wants to do something else. He might even threaten to disinherit him, for the fool notion that his father doesn't know what job suits him best. That's one thing that fathers need to study their children for—to save them from future disappointment.

"If we knew them better we would learn that in a world with such diversified personalities in it such as ours, we cannot plan another's life for him—not even our son's life, or our daughter's life. They must in large measure live their own life and do their own planning and choosing. The most we can do for them, and it is a great deal, is to study them, get to know them, and cast our influence on the side of that which is good.

"We know well enough that if we can give our son or daughter a good moral character, a love of the beautiful and the true, we can trust them not to make fools of themselves in the choice of a career or a wife.

"Fatherhood, like motherhood, depends on how much of the goodness of God we build in the lives of our children," the minister concluded.

Springfield S. T. C. Policies Are Scored

"Political Fixing" Is Charged in Dismissal of Eighteen Members of School Faculty.

Springfield, Mo., May 16.—Thirty-one school men, representing seventeen counties of Southwest Missouri, have protested against what they term "deplorable conditions" in the Southwest Missouri State Teachers' College.

The following resolution was adopted:

"We, the representatives of more than 200 school heads of Southwest Missouri, wish to protest the recent action of President Roy Ellis and his "kitchen cabinet" in dismissing 18 members of the faculty of the college in an unprofessional, unethical and unjust manner.

"We feel, that, if a financial retrenchment is necessary, the rules of seniority, qualifications and experience should have been made. We feel that is but another instance of the domination of the affairs of the college by a small group of men who lack vision and who have not the welfare of the college at heart. This group of 'political fixers' has never had the confidence of the school people of Southwest Missouri.

"The family rule was given as a basis of action, but was not followed out. Various faculty members were released where other teachers will have to be employed in their places. Such action is an open violation of the declared necessity for economy. Furthermore, faculty members were retained whose courses are not acceptable for full credit in other institutions of higher rank."

The objections of the school men are centered about the dismissal of Prof. T. J. Walker, instructor in rural education.

They frankly declared they were opposed to Prof. Ellis and that they are instituting plans for his removal. It was not announced what these plans were, but it was intimated that properly arranged sentiment would be created.

"There will be trouble as long as Prof. Ellis is president of the state school," they declared, "and we are determined in our efforts for his removal and consequently the protection of the school's morale. The deplorable condition of the college is upsetting the morale of not only the college but all southwest Missouri schools. It is detrimental to the education of our children."

S. S. Webb and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Booher of Burlington Junction were in Maryville today.

Miss Sophie Hull underwent an operation for chronic appendicitis Saturday morning at St. Francis Hospital. She is doing nicely.

Itasca Park Officer Visits Here on Tour

Floyd Elliott Makes Inspection of Route From St. Joseph to International Falls.

Tourist travel over the former Itasca Park highway, now U. S. Highway No. 71, from St. Joseph, Mo., to International Falls, Minn., will break all records this summer, according to Floyd Elliott, secretary of the Red Star-Itasca Park highways, who was in Maryville today on an inspection tour which will take him to the northern terminus of the Itasca Park route.

Mr. Elliott, who makes his headquarters at St. Joseph, said that 100,000 map folders of Highway No. 71 would be printed and distributed. The route is being used more and more each year, he said, because of the development of automobile travel. He pointed out that railroads have not encouraged travel from the Southwest to the northern resort regions, taking them instead to the East and West.

The secretary for the combined highways said he believed the recent meeting of the two at St. Joseph would prove beneficial to the Itasca Park route, as the Red Star highway, which extends south to Tulsa, Okla., and Fort Worth, Tex., is strongly organized and much used. Fifty thousand tourist cars passed over that part of the highway last year, he said, and he expects a greater number this season. From Savannah, Mo., to Fort Worth, he stated, three-fourths of the highway is hard surfaced. From Savannah to Tulsa, there is only forty miles of dirt road.

God's garment. They pray.

"And everywhere God crowds upon us all. Our civilization is what it is because God revealed himself in Jesus. And we cannot live an hour in today's environment without touching God on every hand. Christ is unavoidable.

"Moreover, what we call the natural laws, to which we must ever be subject, even when we harness them to do our will, is only God's days of doing things. We say the stars are held in their orbits by gravitation. But the Book says, 'He holdeth all things by the word of his power.'

"As scientists penetrate the secrets of the atom, balanced collection of negative and positive charges of electricity, they are near to the discovery of the all present God. For 'In Him we live, move and have our being.'

We are living in the very midst of the personal God. We have only to enter into 'The glory of the lighted mind' to discover God in all things.

"And that is the highest end of education; To discover in all things, in the commonest things, The glory of beauty and of character and of God," the speaker concluded.

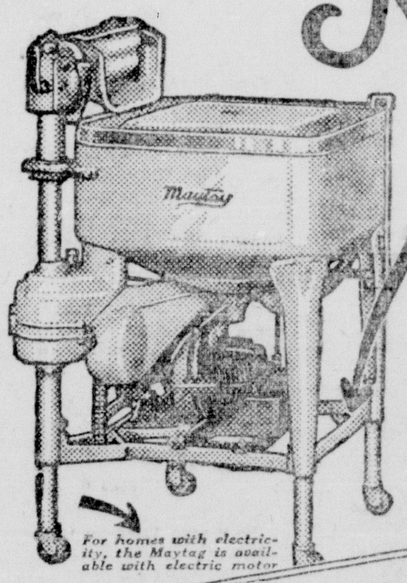
A Farm Washing in 60 Minutes with the MAYTAG



For homes with electricity, the Maytag is available with electric motor

ONE hour with the Maytag Aluminum Washer disposes of 50 pounds of clothes, dry weight—an average family washing.

Whether you have electricity or not, you can enjoy this marvelous washday convenience. The Maytag, for homes without electricity, is equipped with the Maytag Multi-Motor, a compact, in-built gasoline engine as reliable and simple as an electric motor.

The Maytag washes so thoroughly clean that no hand-rubbing is necessary, even on collars, cuffs, wristbands or grimy overalls. Think of the time and effort you will save each week—in a month, in a year—time that you can use to advantage.

It doesn't tire you to wash with a Maytag. It is so convenient. The adjustable legs make it just your height; the all-metal wringer sets close to the water line, and automatically adjusts the tension for a thin handkerchief or a heavy blanket.

SPOOFHOUNDS FAIL TO PLACE IN OTHER TRENTON EVENTS.

MEET CLOSES SEASON

Most of Track Regulars to Be Graduated.—Physical Education Program Planned Next Year.

The Spoofhound track team of Maryville High School closed the season Saturday at the Trenton invitation meet by taking second place in the mile relay. Coaches Wallace Croy and Hugh Graham took five men to the meet, and they participated in the two relays and the half mile run.

Charles Kissinger, Harold Daniels, Ray Keever and Frank Fisher ran the mile relay, Fisher coming in a pace behind a Lexington man. Lexington tied the record in the event, 3:43. The same Maryville boys ran the half mile relay, which followed the mile relay, and failed to place.

James Alsup ran the half mile, but did not place. This event was run in record time. Lexington also took the half mile relay in 1:36. The meet was won by the Lexington team by a big margin.

Of the five men who participated in the Trenton meet only Daniels will be back for next spring's track team. The others will be graduated this week or next Christmas. However, Coach Croy will have seventeen underclassmen who reported for track this year and will be out again next year with a year's experience back of them. Coach Croy said he would have Harold Trueblood, Oren Garrett, Harry Trullinger, Walter Taylor, Robert Wamsley, Homer Warner, Charley Phipps, Vilas Spoor, Junior Stanfield, Harold Daniels, Leroy Rickman, Lloyd Conrad, Leland Smith, Ed Clary, Donald Smith, Junior Curnutt and Frank Nichols of this year's team to form a nucleus for a stronger team in 1928.

The team, however, will lose by graduation the material which showed up to best advantage this year. The following men will be graduated before the 1928 track season starts: Fisher, Vilas Glover, Curtis New, Donald Price, Keever, James and William Alsup, Eldron Anderson, Carl Price, Halbert Catterson, Paul Bratcher, John Smith, Ben Thompson, Charles Kissinger.

Coach Croy is planning a physical education department next year which will have every high school student taking a part. Besides the regular sports of football, basketball and track, he is planning to organize soccer and volley ball teams, and may schedule games with nearby high schools.

Mr. Croy again this summer will attend summer school. He will attend the University of Iowa at Iowa City, and will be there the greater part of the summer.

He said he expected to get back to Maryville two weeks before school starts in the fall, and with the aid of Hugh Graham, will start short practices for the kickers and passers on the football squad.

Musgrave Criticizes Evangelization Plan

"When We Speak of 'Christian' America We Should Say It In Low Voice," Says Pastor.

The kingdom of God cannot become a world wide kingdom under the present plan of evangelization, the Rev. R. E. Musgrave of the First Christian Church told his congregation yesterday morning.

"If there is one thing in the New Testament plainer than another, it is that Jesus intended that the kingdom of God was to become a world wide kingdom. The obligation of carrying out His program was clearly laid upon the church," the pastor delcared.

"America, our own 'Samaria' presents a mighty challenge," he declared. "400,000 Indians; one million Mexicans; one million lumber jacks and miners; 13 million negroes; 15 million foreign born and 33 of the largest cities in America with more foreign than native. To meet this situation the church is not building schools, maintaining social workers or doing any thing else except in a very small way wholly inadequate to the needs.

"As a result a crime wave is sweeping this nation the like of which was never before heard of in any country. Last year there were 11,000 murders in America. 300 in New York as against 19 in London.

"Across the waters two-thousand years this side of the Cross, there are one billion two hundred million who have never heard of Jesus who died that they might live, two-thirds of the world is un-christian, more than one-half know nothing of medcine or surgery, one-half illiterate, and in America less than one-half are members of any Christian Church.

"Jesus said 'Go'. Did he mean what he said? Does the church take it seriously? Jesus not only said 'Go' but he told us where to go. He said, 'the end of the earth' 'every creature' 'the uttermost parts of the earth' 'all nations' And the church has not done it. Why? Such a program calls for a vast amount of money and the church has not furnished it. Hold back the flow of money and the progress of the kingdom of God is likewise held back. Why is the church short of money? Is it because the church does not have money? No. The church people are the richest people on earth. Here is the reason and many will not agree with it. The church has been trying for centuries to finance the program of Jesus with a man-made financial plan which never has worked and never will. The bible teaches clearly that a definite proportion of a man's income belongs to God, and the only proportion that has ever been named is one-tenth. Any clear headed business man will admit at once that if the church would pay one-tenth of its income to the Lord that we could 'Go' "into all the world" in a single generation. And that is exactly what God intended that the church should do, and we have been playing at the biggest job ever entrusted to man.

"Last year America spent 50 million dollars for chewing gum; 500 million for jewelry; 550 million for movies; 750 million for cosmetics, together with other luxuries to a grand total of 12 billion dollars. Over against this all denominations for all purposes paid 600 million. The tithe of the American people last year was $8,960,000,000.00. When we speak of this as Christian we ought at least to speak it in a low voice. Especially when we remind ourselves that according to a very recent actual survey that only 25 percent of the church members of Amercia pay anything at all to the evangelization of the un-evangelized portions of the earth.

"And for all of this the church members are not wholly to blame if they should be blamed at all. The church has never seriously taught the stewardship of money. It is time for Christian leaders to get down upon their knees and repent. We hear much of Religious Education, and the movement should and we think will sweep the entire country, but if we teach everything else and leave out Christian Stewardship as it relates definitely to money, the whole program of Religious Education will, in the end, fail. Some one said, 'The next great revival will be the revival of the Stewardship of Money.' May God hasten the day."

WARRENSBURG TRACK WINNER

TAD REID'S MEN PILE UP 88 POINTS IN MEET HERE.

KIRKSVILLE IS SECOND

Bearcats A Poor Third With 24.—High Wind Aids In Bettering Of Seven Records.

A gray-haired, middle age man, clothed in a pair of gray and black striped unionalls, came to Maryville Saturday with sixteen athletes from the Central State Teachers College at Warrensburg to win the annual triangular Teachers College track and field meet with 88 points.

He was the same man who brought a basketball team here last winter and with the odds against him, defeated the Bearcats. The overwhelming track victory of the Mules over the Kirksville Bulldogs, who finished second with 52 points, and the Maryville Bearcats with 24 points, gave rise to a belief that Tad Reid's men would carry off the M. I. A. A. conference meet, when all five of the Teachers Colleges compete.

Seven conference and triangular meet records were bettered Saturday when a strong wind swept the College field from the west. The records will not stand, however, as they must be made at a conference meet.

Wilson of Warrensburg broke the tape in the 100-yard dash in 9.8 seconds. The conference record is held by Brown of Warrensburg at 9.9 seconds. L. Craig of Kirksville broke into the limelight when he cleared the high jump bar at 5 feet 11 inches, breaking the record held by Barnes of Kirksville at 5 feet 10½ inches. Vail of Kirksville heaved the shot 42 feet 11¼ inches to better the conference record of Galloway of Springfield of 42 feet ½ inch.

Kennedy Is High Point Man.

Vernon Kennedy, Warrensburg star, who holds the national decathlon championship, took his first five points when he ran the high hurdles in 15.7 seconds, lowering the record of W. Reynaud of Springfield by 3-10 of a second. He was high point man of the meet with 23 points.

He bettered the broad jump record, when on his last leap he covered 22 feet 6½ inches. The old mark is held by Cherry of Springfield at 22 feet. It looked for a minute as if a Bearcat would take first in this event. Frank Crane, who had been getting some poor jumps, on his last trial went 22 feet ⅜ inch. It was the best leap made, with only Williams and Kennedy remaining to jump. Williams, however, lowered Crane's hopes when he jumped 22 feet 6 inches and then Kennedy came along for the best leap of his career.

The 220-yard low hurdle record went by the board as Williams covered the distance in 25 2-5 seconds, and Wilson made the furlong in 21.6. The conference low hurdle record is 26.3 held by Reynaud and the 220-yard dash record is 22.2, made by Brown of Warrensburg.

Bearcats Get One First.

Maryville counted its 24 points by taking one first, one second, six thirds and four fourths. Wakely was the only Bearcat to place first. He counted 5 points by clearing 11 feet 2 inches in the pole vault. Crane took third in the broad jump; Hollar took a third in the shot put, third in the pole vault and fourth in the discus. Davenport placed third in the 880-yard [illegible], in which he holds the record, and third in the 440-yard dash. Joy placed fourth in the high jump and fourth in the javelin. Captain Smith came in fourth in the mile run and third in the two mile, while Burks placed second in the javelin. Coach H. Frank Lawrence withdrew his teams from the relay races.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

T. Q. Curtis, millionaire owner of the big Curtis department store, selects by means of an intriguing contest three girls from his establishment to be his wards for one year. During that time he promises to give them the opportunity to pursue the work which will lead to the realization of their respective ambitions.

The girls chosen are BILLY WELLS, who longs to become a concert violinist. NYDA LOMAX, who for the sake of gaining her employer's favor during the contest, says her ambition is to be a kindergarten teacher, and WINNIE SHELTON, who untruthfully declares she wants to become a private secretary to a "big business man like Mr. Curtis."

CLAY CURTIS, son of the millionaire store owner, tries to get Billy to give up the proposition, feeling that this precipitation of three poor girls into wealth will be disastrous. She disregards his advice. Clay has disinherited himself and is living in the Wells home in the poor section of the city, working in the Truman automobile factory in the daytime and writing music at night. Clay hints darkly that his father's full scheme has not yet been revealed.

room before Billy can make her presence known. She is confronted with a problem. If she tells T. Q. she has overheard, he may abandon his plan and all three girls will be cheated. She makes a decision and slips noiselessly out of the room and upstairs.

However, urged by a nameless fear, she begs Clay to return to his father and his old life, to fill the void in his father's heart, so he will not want to adopt a daughter.

Nyda and Winnie feel that Billy has the upper hand of them, because old T. Q. loves to hear her play the violin. Winnie, who is studying secretarial work, offers to do his work for him in the evenings. Old Curtis arranges for the cook and housekeeper's children to take private kindergarten lessons from Nyda. He fits a room up for the purpose. Although Nyda doathes children, she conceals the fact and thanks old T. Q. Billy is neglecting her music because of her infatuation for Romaine. She has agreed to cut a music lesson and spend the day with him.

Winnie Shelton offers to do old Curtis' secretarial work in the evenings, so Billy, who often is asked to play for the old man, will not get the upper hand. Old T. Q. fits up a kindergarten room for Nyda and obtains two private pupils for her. Romaine asks Billy to allow him to accompany her on a shopping tour. He directs her to the exclusive shop of Madame Dubois, where she makes purchases to the amount of three hundred and ten dollars. As they leave the shop, she is surprised to hear the salesgirl mention to Romaine his previous visit there with Winnie Shelton. When they ride toward the country, they see Nyda Lomax with her head on EDDIE BANNING's shoulder. Eddie was Nyda's chauffeur-sweetheart in her department store days.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER 31

"Tell me about you and Nyda and Winnie before you came to live at Mr. Curtis' house," Dal Romaine suggested, as the roadster sped away from Colfax. "What sort of girls were they? Were the three of you friends, or enemies, as you now seem to be?"

"Nyda and Winnie were friends, or rather, as close friends as two such pretty girls can be," Billy answered. "Nyda was our store vamp, but she had no real harm in her. She was engaged to Eddie Banning, the chauffeur you saw her with just now, and she thought she was doing very well indeed to get him. He makes sixty a week, and has his room, meals and uniforms as well as fat tips from his millionaire employer's guests. And I think Nyda was really in love with him."

"What sort of chap—Banning?" Dal asked casually, his eyes on the road.

"Oh, a roughneck, I suppose you'd say, not too chivalrous toward women, not even toward Nyda. But he suited Nyda—then, before she was thrown into luxury and a society for which she was not fitted. None of us was fitted for the life we've been thrown into—"

"Except you," Dal told her softly. "You're a lady born and a lady bred, regardless of the fact that you've had to work for your living."

"Thank you, but it's not true, just the same," Billy contradicted him.

"Tell me about Winnie." He smiled indulgently, as if she were a stubborn child.

"Winnie," and Billy's voice hardened slightly, "was the prettiest girl in the store, and the men spoiled her. She could always get any man she wanted, and no girl's best beau was safe if Winnie wanted him. If T. Q. hadn't taken her up, she would probably have married Clyde Stewart, or someone like him, and glad of the chance. Now—well, she's playing for bigger stakes, and if she has to go back to the store—of course she'll never be a private secretary; she hasn't that sort of brains—her whole life will be spoiled. So will Nyda's. I don't know what's holding her to Eddie Banning, for it's plain that she hates him now. And I don't believe either Winnie or Nyda will land a husband among the society men we've been thrown with as T. Q.'s wards. After all, we are Cinderella girls, shopgirls playing at society, and the agreement we signed prohibits us from marrying within the year. Of course a contract like that would not be binding in court, and if Winnie could grab off Ralph Truman or Bruce Kruger or—or you"—she forced herself to throw an impudent, challenging grin at him—"she'd kiss her contract and T. Q. goodby without a qualm. I suppose Nyda would, too."

"And you?" Dal smiled.

"Oh, I'm afflicted with a conscience." She caught her lower lip between her teeth to keep it from trembling in the wave of feeling that swept over her. "I'll live up to my contract. Not that I expect to be besieged with offers of marriage," and she flashed that impudent grin at him again.

"It may be harder to live up to that contract than you think," he said meaningfully, his eyes narrowing in brooding seriousness upon her.

She wrenched her eyes away from his, to avoid the disaster of exposing her very soul to him. "Nice weather we're having," she said with a short laugh. "By the way, where are we going? That was the Clifton turning back there."

"I forgot to tell you." Dal's voice was casual again. "I have a friend, a chap I knew in India, who owns a small country place out here. I phoned him that we would take potluck with him today. I thought you'd like that better than an inn or roadhouse with its inevitable fried chicken dinner. Kennedy will have his native cook fix us up some real Indian food. You must be introduced to Indian chow. You're going to eat a lot of it before you're many years older."

"Am I?" Billy laughed shakily. "That's news. Is the gypsy blood in you telling fortunes now?"

"Yes." His voice was very low. "India has marked you for her own, just as she marked me—before I was born."

"You give me the shivers," Billy protested.

"We turn here." Dal Romaine's manner was casual again. "The house is a quarter of a mile up this dirt road."

They said little more until the house, a low, rambling log cabin, came into view. A curl of blue smoke from the squat rock chimney promised warmth and hospitality. A thrill of adventure tingled through Billy's overwrought nerves. She might have known Dal Romaine would do nothing in the ordinary way—and what had he meant—India? India?

The raucous squawk of Romaine's horn brought a tiny bronze man, ugly and old, to the door of the cabin. A sight of Romaine, the East Indian salaamed three times, bumping his greasy black head on the rough boards of the porch, his dirty white robe flapping about his skinny legs in the March wind.

Romaine spoke rapidly in a foreign tongue, and was answered in the same language. Then the East Indian shuffled to the car, and after salaaming low before Billy, opened the door and stood back deferentially as she alighted.

"Sukha Singh says that Kennedy is out in his car. He darkly suspects misfortune, but I'm sure old Ken will turn up any minute. If he isn't here within half an hour, we'll have luncheon anyway. Ken probably has had a little car trouble. His old bus is a hundred years old, more or less, and he rarely takes it out without having to be hauled in."

His speech of explanation carried them into a big living room, furnished with an incongruous mixture of cheap American-made furniture and East Indian rugs, brasses, pottery and garishly colored printed muslin. She stared about her in amazement, as she walked slowly to the fire blazing on the wide, deep hearth.

"A bit of Indian, to give you a taste for it," Dal Romaine told her softly, as he lifted her moleskin coat from her shoulders.

The East Indian servant shuffled out of the room, after a few rapid sentences and another series of salaams, closing the door after him.

Billy stooped to warm her hands at the fire, while Dal Romaine leaned against the mantel, one brown hand stroking a cobra candlestick made of brass, its intricate carving painted with vivid green and red. Her gaze had not left his, and now it widened, became fixed in an unwinking stare, as the mysterious power of his black eyes, narrowed and burning, had its way with her.

Slowly his hand that was stroking the coiled cobra of the candlestick lifted, slipped along the mantelpiece, dropped to his side, clenched into a hard brown fist. His whole body seemed to grow as rigid as a bronze statue. Only the eyes escaped rigidity. As she stared at him, spellbound, the lids lifted their long black fringes until the full size of the sooty black irises was revealed. Even the drooping lid of the right eye gave up its secret. When the irises were fully revealed, their dull blackness seemed to turn to glittering polished jet.

Their bodies were less than three feet apart. Entirely without her own valition, Billy took a jerky, mechanical step forward, raised her arms slowly as if they were controlled by marionette strings. He stood quite still, knowing that he did not have to raise a finger, drawing her, compelling her, by the hypnotism of his wide, unwinking eyes.

When her shaking hands touched his shoulders, she threw herself upon his breast, her eyes released by contact with him. His arms went about her then, holding her close. It was then that she broke into a wild sob of relief and terror, but her fingers dug deeper into the smooth cloth of his coat, as if she were afraid that she would die if she loosened her hold.

"I want you to—kiss me," she panted, in a low, sob-shaken voice that was like nothing that had ever issued from her lips before. "I shall die if you don't kiss me."

Dal Romaine tells Billy the weird, startling, repulsive story of his life—and sets the seal of possession upon her.

His arms went about her then, holding her close.

Man Boiled to Death in Hospital Bath Tub

Harbin, Manchuria, May 16.—A Russian ex-policeman was boiled to death in his bath at the Chinese Eastern Railway's Central Hospital here.

The Russian, an inmate of the lunatic ward in the hospital, was suffering from progressive paralysis of the spine. An attendant took him for his bath, found the tub empty and turned on the hot water faucet. Just then another patient called the attendant, who returned half an hour later to find the ex-policeman boiled to death in a tub of steamy water.

The lunatic resisted strongly when the attendant tried to drag him from the tub. Physicians said the man's disease had destroyed his power of feeling and that presumably the steaming water fascinated him. The patient died a few hours after being taken from the boiling bath-tub.

Solid Base

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a business organized on a colossal scale, but its methods of operation are as simple, the foundation upon which it is built is as solid as a "one man" business in which the owner knows personally every worker and every customer.

The principles of successful business do not alter with the years or vary with differences in size. They are the same always for all organizations, large or small.

Fair-dealing—honesty of purpose—sincerity in word and deed—form the solid base of principles upon which all successful business must be built.

The public insists that this shall be true. The public is made up of a great mass of men and women who are quick to detect fraud and deceit. A few people may be fooled—but never the great mass of people who make or break a business.

For it is the public that decides the success of any business. People cannot be forced to buy things against their will. They buy the products of that organization which they know they can depend upon to give them the highest quality at the lowest possible price. They insist on fair dealing, honesty, sincerity.

The ever-increasing demand of the people of the Middle West for Standard Oil Company (Indiana) products—which has made necessary its steady growth—has shown their appreciation of these principles.

The people of the Middle West have learned that they can depend on the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). They know that its products are reliable—always the same. They know that they will meet fairness and honesty in any dealings they may have with the Company.

The very name of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has stood for faithful service and ndelity to right principles for so many years that when the Company introduces a new product to the public, thousands of people are instantly ready to try it, confident that it will maintain the reputation of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Such a reputation for integrity is built up in only one way, whether the smallest store in the smallest village, or a large organization like the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) serving ten states is concerned—by the simple system of fair dealing, honesty of purpose, sincerity in word and deed.

In the smallest store in the smallest village one man practices these principles, whereas in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) shareholders, directors, employes practice them unfailingly—generation after generation. Men come and go, but the name of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and the principles for which it stands endure.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, May 16.—With the trade inclined to sell on better weather generally, wheat prices showed a little easier tendency on the Chicago board of trade today. The visible supply showed a good decrease. The cash market was steady.

Corn was less active and prices sagged fractionally. The cash trade over night was slow and the market was affected by improved weather conditions. The cash market was ½c to ¾c lower.

Oats were a trifle easier after a steady opening. There was no special feature to the trade. The cash market was unchanged.

Provisions were higher.

Pupils Slow to Sign For Supervised Sport

Only one grade school pupil had registered at the city hall up to 3 o'clock this afternoon for the supervised recreation activities, that are to be outlined this summer by the recreation commission, appointed by Mayor W. O. Garrett.

Mrs. Merle Cooper Smith, city clerk, said she expected several would be in to register after school hours this week. Grade school pupils desiring to take part in the activities are asked to register at the city hall, giving their age and weight.

The Classes Against the Masses

Philip Snowden (upper left), Labor Party leader, locks horns with Sir Douglass Hogg, attorney general and sponsor of the Troy Party's labor bill against a background of bitterness and class hatred brought on by the general strike of a year ago.

NEW BILL MAY CAUSE STRIFE

BRITAIN'S TORY MEASURE MAY CAUSE INDUSTRIAL SUICIDE.

CLASS AGAINST MASS

Law, If Passed, Would Enhance Bitterness Of Labor Difficulties, Writer Asserts.

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

London May 16.—With America "sitting pretty" at the top of the business of the world, and with Germany sturdily working to come back to a place in the industrial sun, the British Tory Die Hards are trying to make England commit business suicide.

For the bill regulating the trades unions, which they are about to jam through Parliament, is a measure which should be properly labeled:

"A bill to enhance the bitterness of political strife, to precipitate a class war, to arrest Britain's progress towards industrial recovery, and to bring about in the workers a mood in which they will loaf at their jobs, in contrast to the productiveness of American and German workmen."

Predicted Months Ago.

Months ago, after the breaking of the general strike of a year ago, I predicted the Tory party would bring in such a bill, aimed at the trades unions. But Englishmen didn't believe it, relying on Premier Baldwin's gentle words about "peace in our time."

However, since then the Die-Hards have had their innings. The Tory party convention at Scarborough overwhelmingly passed a resolution demanding stern measures. The bill recently introduced in the Commons by Sir Douglas Hogg, the attorney general, goes even beyond the fondest dreams of the Die Hards.

First—It declares illegal any strike, if it has any object in addition to the furtherance of a trade dispute within the trade concerned, or if it is calculated to coerce the government or intimidate the community or any substantial part of it. Penalties provided are anywhere from 100-pound fine to two years imprisonment. Any workman refusing to take part in such a strike is protected by this law from being expelled from his union, or, in lieu thereof, the courts can give him damages.

Second—Picketing is forbidden, if it is calculated to intimidate a person by causing in his mind a reasonable apprehension of injury to himself, his family or his property.

Bar Union Levies.

Third—At present most trades unions levy on each member a sum which is devoted to the political campaigns of the Labor party. If a member does not want to contribute, he signs a paper so declaring and is then immune. Under the proposed law, no member is subject to a political levy unless he signs a paper specifically declaring himself in favor of it.

War was declared the moment the bill was introduced. Its first effect was to close up the ranks of the Labor party, which had suffered a serious breach between its Right and Left wings. The Asquith and the Lloyd George wings of the Liberal party have also been brought together by the bill.

"A charter of freedom for the workman," is the slogan of the Tories.

"A charter for blacklegs" is the reply slogan of the Labor party leaders.

Leaders Are Bitter.

Ex Premier Ramsay MacDonald, before his recent trip to America, called the bill "a measure to force Labor into political, economic and moral subordination."

Ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden, one of the most conservative of the Labor statesman, said: "Nobody but one fit to be an inmate of a lunatic asylum could have conceived such a bill. At a time when the nation's greatest need is better relations in industry, the government has thrown into the industrial arena a bone of contention which is going to make our industrial world a shambles for years to come."

Sir Herbert Samuel, the wise new pilot at the head of the political machinery of the Liberal party, said:

"The government pays too much attention to the elderly gentlemen in London clubs who say 'If I had my way I would put a few of these labor agitators against the wall and have them shot.' That is not a method to solve the problems of our complex industrial society. There is nothing so dangerous in politics as a combination of the iron hand and the feather head."

Predicts Class War.

But the bitterest saying was that of John Wheatley, health minister of the Labor government:

"They have declared war in favor of their class. That's all right. We will know what to do when our class comes on top in the elections and gets control of the government."

Already the political headquarters of all the parties are humming with intense activity. The Tories, with their immense majority in the Parliament, feel confident of passing the bill. The Labor leaders intend to bring home to the country that the bill sweeps away all labor legislation fought for and won in a hundred years.

They say the clause about political levies is a cowardly attempt to cripple the Labor party in financing its campaigns, whereas the Tories can get all the money they want from their wealthy men. This will lead to a sharp debate in Parliament in which the sale of peerages will undoubtedly be aired.

Liberals Elated.

The Liberals are happy. They look upon the bill as a Tory blunder which will revive the Liberal party and sweep Baldwin out of power when the next election is held.

In the meantime, Britons of all classes are getting set for a Parliamentary session and for a stumping campaign which will be the bitterest and the most vituperative this country has seen for 50 years.

Brookfield Church Burns; Children Flee

$100,000 Damage Is Caused by Blaze Starting During Sunday School.—Parsonage Destroyed.

Brookfield, Mo., May 16.—More than 400 children and hundreds of adults escaped without injury when fire, fanned by a high wind, destroyed the Methodist church and parsonage, and damaged the United Brethern church and several houses here Sunday morning. The loss was estimated at $100,000.

The fire started on the church roof while Sunday school was in session and spread so rapidly it was impossible to save any equipment.

The fire soon spread to the parsonage and the United Brethren church and several homes nearby.

Calls for help were sent to neighboring cities and fire departments from Marceline, Bucklin and Laclede made record runs. The fire was brought under control soon after noon.

Defective wiring in the Methodist church caused the fire, it is believed.

Provision Must Be Made for Building, Says Dr. Brooks.—S. T. C. Boards Invited.

Columbia, Mo., May 16.—Facing the necessity of discontinuing some of the work now being done by the University of Missouri by drastically limiting attendance or of reducing the quality of the work, with the result that the University will be less worth while attending, Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president, has announced he would call a state-wide conference soon to consider means of meeting the situation which now confronts state institutions because of lack of revenue.

The conference, which has been authorized by the Board of Curators of the university, will be attended by the Boards of Control and administrative officers of the university, the State Teachers' colleges and eleemosynary institutions, and state officials and public-spirited citizens.

President Brooks has not at this time suggested any solution for the problem, but hopes such a conference may result in a suitable remedy.

Building Held Up.

Pointing out that since January, 1924, only one building on the university campus has been completed and that two others are still standing uncompleted, Dr. Brooks declares that "it is clear a growing institution cannot be maintained with a rapidly decreasing appropriation and no provisions for housing."

The increase in the number of junior colleges in the state has increased the proportion of upper class men in the student body of the university, and these students require an expert teaching staff, with libraries and laboratories adequate to care for their type of work, the president pointed out.

"Undoubtedly similar conditions exist in the State Teachers' colleges and the state eleemosynary institutions," Dr. Brooks said.

More Students, Less Money

"Clearly the citizens of Missouri desire these institutions to be administered with the highest possible degree of efficiency and economy, and I believe that when they are assured that these conditions exist, they will be willing to provide adequate revenue.

"The total appropriations for the university for the biennial period 1925-26 was over $600,000 less than the preceding biennium, while the amount released for the biennial period 1927-28 is over $100,000 less than for the biennial period 1925-26.

"In the meantime the resident enrollment for the year ending June 1926, is 964 greater than for the year ending June, 1924, while the number of extension students for the same period has increased 1618.

NINTH INNING RALLY FALLS SHORT AT STANBERRY.

FINAL SCORE, 6 TO 5

Errors And Poor Work On Bases Spell Defeat For Maryville In Season's Second Game.

Although they collected fifteen hits off Bosch, The Maryville Comets, playing their second game of the season, were unable to push over a win over the Stanberry Red Sox at Stanberry yesterday.

The Comets staged a rally in the ninth inning which netted four scores but fell short by one run, and Stanberry won 6 to 5, giving Maryville a goose egg percentage in the Northwest Missouri League standing.

Playing on a diamond that was used for the first time and in poor condition, Maryville started off the game with Mayor W. O. Garrett receiving the first ball. The Comets were retired in a quite orderly fashion during the early part of the game, with many men dying on bases. Wilson pitched the first four innings and was relieved by Arrington in the fifth. The first Maryville run came in the third inning, when Schultz, the first man up, made the trip around the bases while three Comets went out.

Starting in the fourth inning, all available Comets were put into the fray.

Schultz took the batting honors by gathering three hits, and T. Mulholland, Stanberry third baseman, was credited with the only homerun of the game.

Too many "ifs" spelled defeat for the local club. It might have brought home a victory, had there been fewer errors, better coaching and keener headwork. However, backers of the Comets feel that a team is being whipped into shape that will be on a par with the rest of the League and that can put as many wins in the percentage column as the others.

Next Sunday the Comets play Gentry here.
